

A BIG SURPRISE IN PORTSMOUTH

Mr. Ashton Did Not Even Know He Had Opposition.

SCHOONER LOST, CREW SAVED

Fleischman's Mother Sees Him on Board the Receiving Ship.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
NORFOLK, VA., May 5.—There was never a greater surprise in Portsmouth than when the news came from Richmond that Joseph H. Saunders had been elected superintendent of the public schools. John C. Ashton has been superintendent for twenty years, and he was the unanimous choice of the members of the school board; hence Superintendent Ashton and nobody else was aware that there was any opposition to his re-election. It is stated that Mr. Saunders will relinquish a part of the salary of superintendent, and receive but $400, in addition to his salary of $1,500 as principal of the High School, and thus justify the displacement of Mr. Ashton on the ground of economy.

SCHOONER LOST; CREW SAVED.
The steamship Ontario, of the Merchants' and Miners' Transportation Line, arrived here to-day with the news of the loss of the three-masted schooner John C. Gregory, Captain Barnes. The Ontario brought in Captain Barnes and the crew of seven West Indian sailors, and reported that she had run down and sunk the schooner during a dense fog at sea yesterday morning. The schooner was bound from Norfolk to Plover, Nova Scotia, with a cargo of crocked staves. The steamer cut a great gash in the side of the schooner, and she began to fill immediately. Captain Barnes and the crew put off in a boat, and were picked up by the Ontario. The Ontario was bound here from Boston.

The two lookouts on the steamer's deck heard a bell in the fog just before the crash, but were unable to locate the exact point whence the sound came. The ship was, however, proceeding slowly when the Ontario's horn was sounded. Immediately, but the schooner's crew also took to their boats, and the two met at sea. The shipwrecked were hauled aboard the steamer, cared for and landed here.

It was not thought wise for the steamer to approach the wreck to place a light upon it, fearing an entanglement or collision in the fog, so the schooner was abandoned. Captain Barnes said that the Gregory's stern was out of water when he abandoned her, and Captain Howes expressed the opinion that because of the nature of the schooner's cargo she is probably still afloat and constitutes a grave menace to navigation.

MOTHER MEETS HER SON.
There was a pathetic meeting of mother and son on the receiving ship Franklin this morning. Old detectives said they had been shot at and they were able to face the many dangers and to witness the dreadful scenes which are the incidents of their profession, but when the mother's voice was heard, and the son who had supposed to be dead, in that ship, and the son answered with a wall of contrition, and then both fell into one another's arms in joy, it was too much for them. They had to turn their backs to conceal their emotion.

Alois Fleischman, his wife and Miss Ullmer, the sister of Mrs. Fleischman, of New York, arrived here this morning and went to the Franklin to visit the runaway boy, Leo Edwin Fleischman. The boy was brought from below on the ship where the meeting, the recognition and the affectionate and affecting interview occurred, and then he was returned as they left the ship to his place in the brig. The New York party returned to the Metropolitan Hotel, where Mrs. Fleischman went to her room to rest and recover from the loss of sleep and the excitement of finding her son.

Preparations were begun immediately to procure the release of the boy from the navy, of which he says he has had enough, and there is no doubt that he will be discharged. Mr. Fleischman and the ladies will go to Washington to-night and begin the application there for the release. Meantime the boy's confinement here will be relaxed as much as possible. As to the reward of $1,000 for the finding of the boy, Mrs. Fleischman says she will distribute that among those who have assisted in the identification of her lost boy, and she mentions Captain Evans, both of the Salvation Army, with affection for the interest she took in finding the boy and for publishing his picture in the War Cry, which led to the identification of "Leo Ferrell" on the Franklin as Leo Edwin Fleischman, the runaway boy of New York.

STRIKE AT PULASKI.

Seventy-five Furnace Men Go Out at Bertha Furnaces.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
PULASKI, VA., May 5.—Seventy-five furnace men of the Bertha Mineral Company struck this morning for higher wages. A demand was made by the men for an increase of 10 per cent., with the ultimatum that unless their request was granted they would go out.

G. A. Vanmeter, general manager of the company, sent them word that any of them who were not satisfied with the wages paid could go home, with the above result. The fires have been banked in the furnaces, and the strikers put off. New men are expected here to-day to take the places of the strikers. The general manager is a very determined man, and it is safe to say that he will not agree to the demands of the

CAPT. GRAHAM'S CURE

Sores on Face and Back. Tried Many Doctors. Without Success.

GIVES THANKS TO CUTICURA

Captain W. S. Graham, 1327 Eoff St., Wheeling, W. Va., writing under date of June 14, '04, says: "I am so grateful I want to thank God that a friend recommended Cuticura Soap and Ointment to me. I suffered for a long time with sores on my face and back. Some doctors said I had blood poison, and others that I had barbers' itch. None of them did me any good, but they all took my money. My friends tell me my skin now looks as clear as a baby's, and I tell them all that Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment did it."

strikers if he has to keep the furnaces closed all summer.

The company store has been closed so far, the strikers are concerned, and the company is in much better shape to stand a shut down than the men are. Acting Mayor VanDoren swore in several extra policemen to guard the property to-night, and no trouble is anticipated. The strikers are the best paid laborers in this section.

They claim the reason they struck was because their wages were cut 10 per cent. last year, and should be raised to the old scale, but from the present outlook, there will be no raise, and, if the strikers get back to work, it will be at the same rate. This is the first strike ever had here, and it is causing a good deal of excitement.

The picture printed above is a reproduction of a device that appeared upon buttons worn on the streets of Philadelphia a day or two ago. The people of the city, thoroughly aroused and angry, have taken this method to warn the councilmen against the proposed gas ordinance.

MONUMENT ARRIVES.

Will be Placed on the Wilderness Battlefield in Spotsylvania.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
FREDERICKSBURG, VA., May 5.—The monument in the form of a cannon, weighing 10,000 pounds, to be erected on the Wilderness battlefield, in Spotsylvania county, near this city, to the memory of General Alexander Hayes, of Pennsylvania, arrived here yesterday and has been placed in charge by Messrs. Carlight and Davis, of this city, who will convey it to the battlefield, where it will be placed on a granite base weighing 12,000 pounds. The day for the dedication exercises has not yet been determined.

At the ministers' and laymen's meeting at Salem Baptist Church, in Caroline county, held last Saturday and Sunday, Rev. J. P. Billingsley was elected chairman, Rev. H. A. Willis secretary, and Revs. Andrew Broadus, James Long and Norman Luck the Executive Committee. The attendance was large and many subjects of interest were discussed. The meeting was a most interesting one.

ODD-FELLOWS.

Celebrate Anniversary With Banquet at Opera-House.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
RICHMOND, VA., May 5.—The Odd-Fellows celebrated the eighty-sixth anniversary of the order in America Thursday evening by a big banquet at the Opera House. The speakers were Judge George E. Caswell, Ex-Officio Master J. Frank Caswell.

Mrs. W. T. Baldwin, Jr., Mrs. V. J. Hill, Miss Stratton and William Bragg recited and music was furnished by the Cornelian orchestra. Delightful refreshments were served to about three hundred guests.

Rockbridge Teachers.

LEXINGTON, VA., May 5.—The Rockbridge Teachers' Association has been reorganized with County Superintendent of Schools Robert C. Calkins as president. Mrs. W. E. Wallace, vice-president, and Mr. Harrington Waddell, secretary and treasurer. Waddell was elected before the teachers by Dr. James Lewis Howe, of Washington and Lee University, and Mrs. L. Berkeley Cox, secretary of the Rockbridge Improvement League.

Mr. John Brown has sold his farm of sixty acres, near the town of Lexington, to Mr. Harry A. Deaver the old house and lot on Main Street, Lexington, for $500.

Sunday School Institute.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
WILLIAMSBURG, VA., May 5.—The Episcopal Convocation, which was in session at Bruton Church Tuesday and Wednesday, was followed by a Sunday school institute Thursday, which was attended by a large crowd of ladies from Norfolk and other places. Lunch was served by the ladies of Bruton Church.

MISS HAWKINS' ANCESTRAL GEMS

Burglars Take Diamonds Set Two Hundred Years Ago.

WENT WITH STAMPS & THINGS

Miss Hawkins Placed Them in Safe to Guard Against Burglars.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
MILLBORO, VA., May 5.—Miss Palma Hawkins lost her splendid ancestral diamonds in the postoffice robbery here Wednesday night.

The postoffice is located in the store house of Mr. J. G. Davidson, who is the postmaster. Mr. G. A. Jordan has charge as trustee of the stock of goods, and is the manager of the store.

Mr. Jordan left the building, which is situated in the lower corner of the hotel grounds, at a late hour at night, leaving all secure. When he opened up in the morning he found that the heavy iron safe had been blown open, and all of its contents of value gone.

It was found that the postmaster had lost in stamps and money one hundred and twenty-eight dollars. G. A. Jordan, trustee, was minus about twenty-five dollars, and, in addition, the valuable jewels of Miss Palma Hawkins, the daughter of Mr. J. P. Hawkins, which had been recently placed in the safe and under protection against just this kind of a visitor, had also taken wings and flown away.

Miss Hawkins, an exceptionally attractive young lady, well known to the habitants of Nimrod Hall and Millboro Springs, has for years guarded these jewels with the utmost care. The diamonds and other precious stones alone were, at a most conservative estimate, valued at twelve hundred dollars.

These jewels had descended to Miss Hawkins through a line of ancestors going back over two hundred years. The settings were of the finest gold, and many of them, of course, of antique design, and handsomely chased.

Owing to the associations, this loss to Miss Hawkins is one impossible to replace. The evidences all around prove clearly several points—first, the thief or thieves were perfectly familiar with the premises. They first visited Tyree's blacksmith shop, selected the tools they needed, opened the door to the store without breaking a lock or a bolt. Indications show that, on reaching the safe, they found that they would need a stout iron bar, and from behind the blacksmith shop, and from some of the old tools, Mr. Tyree had forgotten was there. All of this indicates that the thieves were thoroughly familiar with all of the surroundings, and doubtless had been in and around the store and blacksmith shop in the past.

Conclusion must be that local talent performed the job.

Useless Work.

That they were not experts is proven by the fact that the dynamite was inserted and the safe blown from the edge of the door, instead of at the lock. Marks about the safe show that a good deal of entirely useless work was put in on the safe before the explosive was inserted. The floor of the store had that day been freshly oiled, but this fact would not have been disclosed by the dim light they most certainly used at their work.

The crackman, with a commendable regard for neatness and a laudable desire to save his trousers, carefully laid a sheet of paper on the floor upon which to kneel while at work. He most certainly knew that the floor had been freshly oiled.

Among the jewels of Miss Hawkins was a cluster set of rare beauty and value. This piece was known, and would be recognized by nearly every one in this section, and many who have visited this section during the past several years would have been indeed hard to have made any disposition of this piece without running the risk of almost certain detection. This piece was not taken. It must have been handled to get at the other, but it was put in a drawer, and the safe was closed. The crackman was new, and very new, to the business. That he was as familiar with the premises as Mr. Davidson himself. That he knew just exactly what door to enter, and just how to get that door open, by pressing against the door, inserting a thin stick and raising the bar. After entering he knew just where the bar was usually kept, and put it right there behind the door.

In the safe there was a lot of checks, aggregating about two hundred dollars. He had no use for checks, but had he examined he would have found that, wrapped up in the checks were two ten and three five-dollar bills. Mr. Davidson regrets that he missed this part of his swap, and says if he will, he will, during business hours he will cheerfully hand it to him.

WAS PAID TO BURN STANLEY'S BARN

Fred Ozement Arrested and Makes Full Confession.

TELLS NAMES OF EMPLOYERS

Tobacco Growers Will Establish Factories at Madison and Rocky Mount.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
GREENSBORO, N. C., May 5.—Fred Ozement, one of the three parties bound over to court for burning the barn of Isaac Stanley two weeks ago in revenge for information concerning blockade liquor to revenue officers, was surrendered to the sheriff by his bondsmen this evening and placed in jail. In half an hour he made full confession of the deed, giving the names of parties with him and the amount of money paid him and by whom it was paid. Officials decline to give further particulars.

The executive committee of the North Carolina Tobacco Growers' Association this evening determined to establish tobacco factories at Madison and Rocky Mount. Subscription books for Madison for ninety thousand dollars were opened, and nearly half of the amount was subscribed in less than an hour.

A SHOCKING END.

Young Man Found Dead in Gasoline Tank at Union, S. C.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
CHARLOTTE, N. C., May 5.—A special from Union, S. C., says Thomas Howes, aged seventeen, a popular and prominent young man, was found dead in the gasoline house at the plant of the Bailey Lumber Company this morning. Howes went to the place yesterday afternoon for a can of gasoline, and either fainted and fell into the tank of water in which the gasoline tanks stood, or slipped and fell in. The skin peeled from his body in strips.

No outcry was heard, and for some reason he was not missed yesterday. No explanation can be given for his unusual death.

North Carolina Postmasters.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., May 5.—North Carolina postmasters appointed—Bat Cave, Henderson county, Adolphus E. Hudgins, vice Landon M. Hudgins, resigned; Browns Mills, Randolph county, Joseph Ritter, vice Artemas Ward, resigned; Faust, Madison county, Zetta J. Bryan, vice Carrie E. English, resigned; Sperry, Randolph county, Charles D. Harden, vice Ida C. Nelson, resigned; Telephone Person county, Sallie J. Davis vice T. P. Davis, dead.

The name of the postoffice at Thompson's Cross Roads, Louisa county, Va., has been changed to Southanna, and Ida V. Davis appointed postmaster.

EDUCATIONAL.

Meeting at Berryville Attractive and Largely Attended.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
BERRYVILLE, VA., May 5.—The educational meeting held in Berryville today under the auspices of the Co-operative Educational Association of Virginia was a decided success. The speakers were introduced by Mr. Conrad, and Mr. Clark county.

Dr. Latane, professor of history in Washington and Lee, made a capital speech on the value of education, which was listened to with marked interest. Dr. Latane was followed by Captain Hulbert, superintendent of public schools in Rockingham, who spoke especially to teachers, making a strong, clear and interesting address.

The audience, in spite of linden skies, was a large and representative one. It is believed that the interest in the cause of education was greatly increased by this meeting.

Election Postponed.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
CREWE, VA., May 5.—The election, which was to have been held here Wednesday, has been postponed until June 1st. At a meeting held on Tuesday night an election was ordered for June 1st. The cause for the postponement was on account of the law requiring the prepayment of capitation taxes six months prior to an election, there were only a few who could vote at this time.

A BAT ALLEGED TO HAVE CAUSED DEATH

Negro in Raleigh Jail—Squabble Over Requisitions for Two Safe-Crackers.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
RALPHIGH, N. C., May 5.—A writ of habeas corpus has been issued by Judge Fred Moore, to be heard here next Tuesday, in the case of Sam Yarborough, a negro boy, charged with killing Charlie Falson with a base-ball bat Saturday, March 25th, in Marks Creek township. Yarborough is now confined in jail here in default of a justified bond of $2,500, which the prisoner's counsel claims is an excessive bond. Mr. B. C. Beckwith, attorney for Yarborough, also sets forth that Falson was drunk the day by Yarborough in self-defense, and that it is not certain what produced Falson's death in the hospital here several days later.

Solicitor J. K. Henry, of the Sixth Judicial District of South Carolina, appeared before Governor Glenn this morning and asked that requisitions be granted for "Connecticut Shorty" and "Missouri Charlie," the two noted safe-crackers, who were arrested at Wadesboro recently. They are wanted in South Carolina especially for the robbery of the Heath Mercantile Banking Company, at Heath Springs.

J. T. Bennett, of Wadesboro, was here as counsel for the two prisoners, and insisted that the Governor did not have the authority to grant the requisition from South Carolina, when they are held under a warrant for the violation of laws of North Carolina (the charge of carrying concealed weapons).

Attorney-General Gilmer was called into conference with Governor Glenn in connection with the question of law that was raised, and the Governor still has
